Look out for the severe and even cangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroading. Geo. E. Bell, $35 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says "Twenty years of railroading left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends. Lee & Osgood Warning to Railroad Men.

street and up to Monday evening of this week had, since August 3, 1907, been employed as janitor and train announcer at the union station by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. Murphy resigned Monday night because he refused to comply with certain requests made of him to perform certain duties in connection with his regular job.

Early Tuesday morning Murphy was seen to board a train for the west but his destination is not known locally as far as can be ascertained. On Wednesday a boy came to Station Agent Arthur S. Grisweld with a note from Mrs. Murphy requesting Mr. Murphy's weekly pay, but she was informed that Mr. Murphy had been pald in full Monday night.

Ever since Mrs. Murphy has been trying to locate her husband, who is believed to have skipped out with the blonde alluded to. The blonde is slightly built, a little taller than Murphy and is believed to belong in Hartford. She was accustomed to visit Murphy frequently at the station between trains and have long talks with him.

A number of months ago Murphy remarked that he intended to get through before long and hike it for the Great Lakes and the middle west. He is also quoted as saying to a friend that "One of these days I'll just leave a note at the house saying that I've gone and that there will be no need of looking for me."

Murphy is about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches tall, dark complexion, black hair, smooth face. When he talked he had a pronounced brogue.

If anyone accosted him he had a habit of sort of throwing back his shoulders in a peculiarly striking manner. He never appeared to be in a hurry and was very slow motioned in every respect.

in every respect.

Murphy had a great fondness for attending moving picture performances and was accustomed to take in the various shows every night in the week and invariably went alone or with some male companion. It is said that he had accumulated quite a sum of money.

Late Friday afternoon Mrs. Murphy was still wondering where her husband had gone and quietly endeavoring to learn his whereabouts. They have no children.

one of Colonel Roosevelt's "plain and ugiles," because they thus jocularly refer to the "tail" stories which they tell when they meet nightly after dinner in a secluded corner of the palm room at a certain hotel.

No person, unless he is a newcomer, breaks into the charmed circle where the yarns are swapped. As each one endeavors to think up the weirdest and most wonderful tale, the air is filled with the fragrant smoke from rare Havanas, which aid inspiration. Only artists can tell good, impossible yarns and make them sound reasonable, but all of this group of men are credited with being artists in their line. Baron Munchausen could not hold a candle, could he come back into the flesh. "Chestnuts," however, are barred.

Mr. Milner is credited with election as president of the quite wonderful club through the fact that he has performed many doughty deeds on the golf links of the Annandale Country club, to which all of the eastern men of the group here referred to belong. He will return to Moosup during the spring.

Hasty Legislation.

In his biennial report Attorney General Stead of Illinois roundly condemns the habit of slovenly legislation to which the legislature of his own and those of most other states have become addicted. Admitting that some of the existing statutes, enacted years ago, have outlived their usefulness and are in need of repeal or revision, he considers the never-ending flood of new and ridiculously defective laws a much greater nulsance than the retention of ancient and obsolete ones.

With perhaps a few exceptions—though we do not recalliany just now—the remarks of Mr. Steard apply to all the states. Slovenly legislation seems to be one of the vices of the times, The fact that the legal profession has in most legislatures a larger numerical representation than any other profession, trade or occupation, theoretically, should insure properlydrawn laws at least. In practice, it does nothing of the kind. The results are nearly everywhere revealed in appalling masses of conflicting, undigested and indigestible statutes, corresponding masses of conflicting undigested and a general uncertainty as to just what the law on any given subject actually is, and whether it will remain law after the courts have finished with it.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.
